

Working together, we can all mind the gap

In London, England there's a space between the subway car and the platform. And every time the door opens, just as you're about to step off, a recorded voice reminds you to "mind the gap."

Members of the Selkirk and District Community Foundation have spent the past couple of years researching our community and having conversations with the people of our community in our own version of minding the gap together.

We already knew we had a strong, successful and growing Foundation and we knew that we were Here for Good. We had a good understanding of our community's strengths and needs or did we? Were we missing anything or anybody? We needed to mind the gap.

Among all the wonderful projects the Foundation was able provide grant money to this year, we also completed what we call 'Mind the Gap: Vital Signs Report 2018' and it has already helped us identify, recognize, reveal and focus on the unmet needs in the corners of our community where we work, live and play.

My personal "ah ha" moment happened on a downtown Calgary street corner, as the 2015 Community Foundations of Canada Conference came to an end. Part of our contingent was having a conversation about the highlights of the conference and the impact it had on us. We were all moved by the stories of other foundations from across Canada who shared their Vital Signs projects. We came to a unanimous conclusion that if we were going to be responsible for moving the Foundation forward, we had to commit to our own Vital Signs project, something previous Directors had been considering for a few years.

The Vital Signs Report was released in April and I encourage you to read the report, share it with others, and keep it handy. We at the Foundation hope that it helps you "mind the gap" and we know that if we work together towards common goals we can continue to be a smart and caring community that is "Here for Good".

Foundation grant puts dredging back on table

Netley-Libau Marsh Restoration Pilot Project returns to dredging this marsh area, with the help of many funding partners, including $25,000 from SDCF.

Folks who live in the Red River North region have long called for the return of dredging to the river. In fact, there's been a rallying cry for it virtually since it was abandoned by the federal government in 1999.

The Red River Basin Commission (RRBC) has long championed the cause and now, with an infusion of $25,000 from the Selkirk and District Community Foundation, the return of dredging is a real possibility.

"The Selkirk and District Community Foundation stood up for something, in my belief, that the majority of the residents in the area would like to see, which is the opportunity to bring back dredging on the river, but also to recognize a further great opportunity to save the Netley Marsh," said Steve Strang, Manitoba director of the RRBC.

"Their leadership has started that ball to roll, which I believe now has opened the door for the pilot project to get completed in 2019."

Strang said the SDCF was one of the first to recognize the value of the project by committing significant dollars to it. He believes this helped bring other funders on board and, of equal importance, has got higher levels of government thinking, and talking about, dredging.

"What's exciting is this is the will of the people that are on the ground, this is the residents, this is the will of local government people, and I believe that message is starting to be carried up," Strang said.

"(The marsh) is the kidneys of the lake and the fact the Selkirk and District Community Foundation stood up and said you know what, we believe in this, we see value in this, it's a community based interest and we want to support it and move it ahead, I think says so much about the Foundation."

This past year communities of Selkirk, St. Andrews and St. Clements lost some very committed, loving community leaders, volunteers, philanthropists and friends. Their thoughtful families asked that donations be made in their memory to the Selkirk & District Community Foundation, for which we are very grateful.

Smart & Caring People GIVE
in Smart & Caring Ways.

Celebrate a special person or occasion with a special gift that "gives back to the community". Consider a donation the SDCF to celebrate someone's special day...how about a gift for,

- The birth of a baby,
- An anniversary, birthday or graduation,
- A friend for the "Holiday Season",
- A special accomplishment or event.

Foundation grant helps kids and families

A $2,171 grant from the Selkirk and District Community Foundation made it possible for the Interlake Co-op Nursery to purchase furniture and equipment for their off-site child-care programs at William S. Patterson School.

Director Cheryl Longley said they run a before and after School program and Kindercare at the school, and since they receive no funding, the Foundation grant is essential to improving services they provide to young children.

"The only money that comes in is from the parents and that pays for all equipment, supplies, salaries, everything," Longley said.

"When we have support from the Foundation like this it allows us to buy things for the program without having to either up the fees for parents or scrounge around and make due. Without the Foundation we wouldn't be able to put on as good a program."

The two programs run out of William S. Patterson School are in addition to the Co-op's existing centre, located on Hwy. 8 in Petersfield.

Interlake Co-op Nursery partnered with William S. Patterson to create Kindercare, which provides a place for the school's Kindergarten-aged students on days when they're not in class. The school provides the space and Interlake Co-op provides the staff.

The before and after-school program starts at 7:15 am and goes until 6 pm and is open to students who attend William S. Patterson.

Students in the Kindercare program listen intently to their teacher reading a book.

Longley said they bought a storage cabinet, shelving unit and trays and various toys and puzzles with the Foundation grant.

"The purchase allows the staff to organize better and be more prepared for the kids and families that use the program," Longley said.

We're on our way – the launch of Vital Signs – Mind the Gap

A Vital Signs report is a community check-up. Community foundations, like ours, all across Canada use it to measure the vitality of our communities, identify significant trends in a range of community sectors that are critical to a smart & caring community. The research leads to ideas that move this knowledge into action. Vital Signs is coordinated nationally by Community Foundations of Canada and was developed with the help the Toronto Foundation.

With the help of the community, the Selkirk and District Community Foundation was able to release its own Vital Signs Report in April. Titled 'Mind the Gap', it looks at nine key areas, from housing to mental health and community safety, and reveals what we as a community do well, and where we need to mind the gap.

Our research leading up to the launch of Vital Signs brought people together to work towards a common good; and we learned - that is one of our greatest strengths. In Selkirk, St. Andrews and St. Clements, we pitch in together to solve problems and make change happen.

The Vital Signs report challenges us all to do three things that will make a difference in each of the nine areas – in Inclusive Communities the Power of music on display at Robert Smith School

If you hear beautiful music drifting through the air as you pass Robert Smith School, it just might be the sounds created by students playing Northern Spirit flutes, purchased for the school's music program with help from a Selkirk and District Community Foundation grant.

Teacher Katherine Lapp said the school purchased 40 flutes and other resources with the $2,436 grant.

The Foundation believes in programs and activities that promote inclusiveness and the flutes help with not just learning music, but connecting with cultural perspectives in new ways. They can also help students foster a positive sense of self.

"The flutes and resources allow the students at Robert Smith School to learn and perform Aboriginal flute music," Lapp said.

Teacher Katherine Lapp and students from Robert Smith School are learning about Indigenous culture and how to play Northern Spirit flutes, purchased with a SDCF grant.

"Students will enhance and improve their music skills through the learning of a new instrument."

Lapp said students of all cultural backgrounds are learning to play the flutes.

"Everyone gets to participate and learn. Whether you're First Nations or not, it still gives you the opportunity to learn about culture and the students are all interested in that and they love learning new instruments."

The flutes are based on traditional First Nations flutes, but are made of plastic so they can be sanitized and used by many students.

She's also going to open the program up so others in the school community can learn and enjoy.

"We're going to be having a group with parents and students, so parents can have a chance to learn as well."

three things are volunteer one more time, or at one new place, than you did last year; read the 94 Calls to Action from the Truth and Reconciliation Report; and ensure your workplace reflects the diversity of your community.

At the Foundation, we're pledging to do three things as well. We will lead a Vital Signs conversation or focus group in the next 18 months; analyze data to strengthen our own strategic and operating plans and update the Vital Signs Report in four to five years.

So you can see, the report is complete, but the work is not done. We'll keep checking the pulse of the community, and continue to mind the gap, with an aim to closing it.

Echocardiogram important for our region

Jean Oliver knows from personal experience the need for an echocardiogram in Selkirk. Oliver, who is co-chair of Selkirk Rotary's Project Echo along with Gayle Halliwell, had to travel to Winnipeg for one, and was eventually diagnosed with the heart condition pericarditis.

"I can tell you from experience that having an echo in Selkirk would have made my experience much easier," Oliver said.

"An echo could have been performed upon presenting at the hospital and a diagnosis much quicker."

Rotary's Project Echo team is trying to raise more than $170,000 to purchase an echocardiogram, a specialized ultrasound of the heart used to diagnose and monitor a wide range of cardiac conditions, for the Selkirk Regional Health Centre.

The team was thrilled with the Selkirk and District Community Foundation's grant of $20,000.

Halliwell said the importance of the SDCF grant can't be understated.

"The Selkirk and District Community Foundation was the first in with a big donation. They were THE first and that gave us a lot more confidence to go out to the other community foundations and community organizations across the entire district," Halliwell said.

"The fact the Selkirk and District Community Foundation believed in us, or showed their confidence in our project, that energized our rolling out of the other fundraising that we were doing for this project."

Oliver's experience is by no means rare. Halliwell said heart attacks and hypertension rates in the Interlake-Eastern Regional Health Authority are higher than the provincial average and congestive heart failure rates are above normal here.

"In our area, those three markers told us that addressing cardiac health for our community would make a significant difference to the health of the community overall," Halliwell said.

If more proof is needed to sell anyone on an echo, consider this – cardiovascular disease is the second highest cause of death among seniors, Halliwell said, and 3,000 people who reside in the IERHA travel to Winnipeg every year for echocardiograms.

"That's a lot of echos," she said, noting that driving to Winnipeg can cause extra stress for rural patients, who often prefer to remain in the home community as much as possible for medical care.

Oliver said the reality is patients will still have to travel to Winnipeg for heart care, but being able to have an echo done in Selkirk eases the stress.

"In the end, should the need arise, patients would then have to go to Winnipeg for any heart-related issue, but the diagnosis would be much sooner."

2017-2018 Community Grant Program

A year of great grants!

Twice a year the SDCF welcomes charitable organizations in the region of Selkirk and the rural municipalities of St. Clements and St. Andrews to submit proposals on how we can help them achieve their wishes and dreams. In 2017-2018 we funded 53 projects, with future granting and flow through donations, a total of $ 311,034.
